I assume this issue would extend to Doom as well, but there are no line attacks in Doom that have impact sounds when they strike a wall, to confirm.

I attempted to triage this quickly but failed to understand the problem. Could you elaborate a little on which a) which weapon you used, and b) what sound you expected to play.

I believe I meant that HeXen's line attack weapons aren't making their impact sounds when they hit a wall/floor (i.e the fighters gauntlets).

Unfortunately, Dday has just stopped working on my computer (it just closes on it's own without error, a second or two after starting the engine), so I am unable to double check.
